MEMORANDUM FOR RECORD

On November 13th, I telephoned General Carter to attempt to arrange a meeting between General Carter, General Greer, Mr. Crowley and myself, and hopefully to set it up for early next week. Due to General Greer's launch schedule, I suggested we have General Greer come in here for such a meeting.

General Carter indicated he would be away for several days next week. Further advised that he was trying to have an analysis made of the Vance/McCone correspondence because although he could see vast areas of agreement, he also saw places which could become "hookers", and believed it would be best to have Carter/McMillan negotiations on these areas prior to setting up such a meeting. The analysis will include not only those areas where there are no questions, but also will include those areas on which he believes there should be a meeting of the minds. Such an analysis, according to General Carter, will be completed and furnished this office by early next week. After the analysis has been evaluated, and proper negotiations between McMillan and Carter take place, then a meeting can be arranged with Greer and Crowley.

I agreed to the above approach and advised I would await further word from General Carter.
