(b)(3)

22 February 2017

MEMORANDUM FOR DIRECTOR, NATIONAL RECONNAISSANCE OFFICE

FROM: TSL/CC

SUBJECT: Public Release of Technology Operations Squadron Launch - Vandenberg Logo and Coin Design

1. In accordance with National Reconnaissance Office Directive 100-26, Memorabilia, 1 Aug 13, the National Reconnaissance Office (NRO), Technology Operations Squadron Launch Vandenberg requests concurrence and approval on the use of the attached logo and Coin designs.

The logo for the Technology Operations Squadron Launch Vandenberg was developed to reflect the new detachment name formed during the transition of the [REDACTED] from the Mission Operations Directorate to the Technology Operations Group under the Communications Systems Directorate. This is an update of an existing logo to reflect the name change and modernize its appearance.

(b)(3)

a. The black background represents space and the sacrifice and dedication each member of the detachment possesses

b. The globe signifies the detachments expansive mission to connect the organization, not just across our nation, but throughout the world

c. The armored hand and extending lightning bolts identify a time-honored symbol of the comm we strive to maintain, protect and deliver.

d. The SATCOM antenna, arrow, constellation and satellite represent the ground and space mission performed by the detachment.

e. The 4 subdued stars represent the 4 launch missions (NRO, DoD, NASA, Commercial) the detachment directly supports furthering our nations overhead missions.

TSLV envisions 2 separate coins one for distribution. The face of the coin's will be the new TSLV logo, the reverse side of the coins are outlined below:

Coin 1

a. Already accepted and approved NRO logo

UNCLASSIFIED

SUBJECT: Public Release of Technology Operations Squadron Launch - Vandenberg Logo and Coin Design

Coin 2

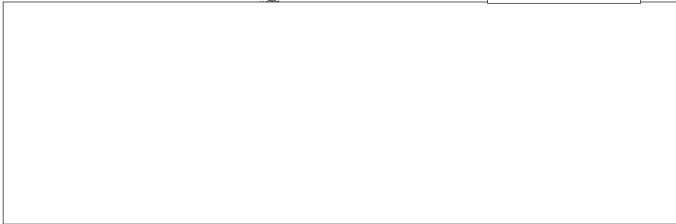

a. Already accepted and approved logos for the TSLV's reporting chain: NRO, COMM, NISP, TOG, and TSL

b. The word "Presented for Performance Excellence" in AF Blue and silver to reflect the AF core values

c. The logos are surrounded by a ring of binary to represent the data passed to mission partners around the globe. The binary code when converted reads "whereeverythingismoredifficultthanitneeds2b" which is a common moniker at the site.

Should you have any questions, my point of contact regarding this matter is [redacted] Flight Chief Operations and Maintenance, Technology Operations Squadron Launch Vandenberg, at secure [redacted].
