1. Where several divisions cooperate on one project for which one branch has prime responsibility, it is desirable where practicable that each participating branch have its own job order number for bookkeeping purposes. The cognizant Branch Head is responsible for the apportionment of funds among the participating branches. Apportionment of funds should be coincident with assignments, or as soon thereafter as practicable, in order to provide the best possible planning basis for participating branches, as well as for the branch having prime cognizance.
