Although I told ▯ that current capabilities for real time SIGINT reporting are treated as (U), to go back to the 70s may be a stretch. Check with the IARC guys and see if the RRG allows that, I'm not sure.

Is it permissible to print in an unclassified paper the fact that "signals intelligence satellites that could relay collected electronic signals in near real-time had reached operational status in the 1970s"?

Let me know.
